SAN RAFAEL POPULATION Tomales District NOW PLACED AT 24,000

San Rafael now has 24,000 residents.

The State Finance Department says so.

City Manager Dan E. Andersen told the city council last night he had just received telephoned word that the department has completed a special census estimate requested by the city, and reached the 24,000 figure.

The population of San Rafael in the 1960 federal census was 20,460.

Andersen said the increase would mean a gain of more than $20,000 in state tax allocations and subventions. The special census estimate cost the city $500.

A CLASSIC THE DAY IT WAS BORN

GOOD TASTE AND ELEGANCE ARE TIMELESS. GOOD DESIGN LASTS THROUGH THE YEARS. These are the two principles upon which the Lincoln Continental was created. It is the ultimate expression of master creative designers who sought simplicity with drama, style with character. What emerged is America's first classic automobile in a quarter-of-a-century. A classic the day it was born. ¶ Underneath this enduring beauty, is enduring engineering to match. The Lincoln Continental for 1962 is put through 189 separate and rigorous tests on the engine test blocks, and on a special test driving course. Skilled specialists probe deep to make sure that every mechanical component of every Lincoln Continental performs its function properly for today and for tomorrow. The result is a true luxury car built to retain its beauty and its value through the years ahead. It is America's finest automobile, and as such, it is warranted for twice as long as any other American car (24,000 miles or 2 full years).

SHE WON'T LET SCHOOL DICTATE CHILD'S SHOES

CLEVELAND, Ohio (A)-The mother of 6-yearold Kimberly Pape has won her battle with school officials. The kindergarten youngster can wear his cowboy boots to school.

Kimberly's teacher felt cowboy boots were not suitable for school. Miriam Pape thought she was qualified to select what her son wore.

George E. Theobold, assistant superintendent of Cleveland elementary schools, backed the teacher and principal of the school, but said last night he would allow Kimberly to wear boots in school.

Mrs. Pape, who hails from Texas, commented: "It wasn't just the boots, but the principle. I believe that it is my right and responsibility to choose my child's clothing. I will not turn this right over to the schools.

Free Expression On Public Issues? Not Under Tax Bill

If any industry or interested group maintains a lobby and similar "legislative appearances" to favor or oppose legislation—that would be a deductible business expense under President Kennedy's tax measure, recently passed by the House of Representatives.

But if the industry or group seeks to widen its audience, and uses informative advertising to present the issue and seek support for its viewpoint—that would NOT be a deductible business expense, according to the same measure.

To clarify the situation, a Democrat, Representative Hale Boggs, of Louisiana introduced a measure in Congress to allow deduction of cost of such informational advertising as a business expense. Then the administration presented its measure.

Announcements stated the principle of the Boggs bill was incorporated in the new tax measure, which was rammed through the House. But advertising is not mentioned in the 240-page

Penalizing any business or group that spends its money to present its case directly to the public seems a new bureaucratic control measure to keep the public from being informed, so voters can form their own opinions.

Hearings before the Senate Finance Committee on the omnibus tax measure are now under way, with thousands protesting many sections. Most have been told to confine themselves to statements for the record. But the voterswho elect the members of Congress, and pay the taxes, and seek full information on issues—they can register their views now by promptly writing their Senators and Congressmen that efforts to explain legislation are in the public interest, whether through lobbies to legislative bodies or through newspapers and other mass media directly to the

Was the Republican uprising in the Assembly, which blocked the state budget and forced a second special session, worthwhile? It certainly was, according to Marin-Sonoma Assemblyman William T. Bagley. Although Gov. Edmund G. Brown claims otherwise, Bagley says 28 million taxpayers' dollars will be saved. Here's the way he figures it:

Slightly more than $2 million were saved in specific cuts. Such reductions included $250,000 sliced from the local assistance for mental health services' "overbudget," $150,000 from "overbudget" for juvenile hall camps, $200,-000 by increasing out-of-state tuition for University of California, $185,000 sliced from Department of Water Resources projects already completed, under way or duplicated, and half a dozen smal-

"It certainly was," answers Bagley. "We pointed up to the people the fiscal condition of the state, a budget 45 per cent higher than four years ago with a population increase of only 12 per cent.

"We pointed out that the governor has "balanced" his budget on an expected 10 per cent increase in the state's economy next year when the highest ever seen to date was 7 per cent. Then we made savings to help keep the budget balanced if we don't get the increase.

Scouts Need Conservationists

Independent-Journal:

We citizens of Marin County who decry the inexorable advance of the asphalt jungle, which is engulfing our lovely hills and valleys, are overlooking an opportunity to stay this blight.

Eight hundred acres of redwood shaded canyons, bare, sunswept hilltops, grassy meadows-even a little hillhemmed lake-above Fairfax, will benefit from the present fund raising program for the Marin County Boy Scout Council.

Monday night's meeting of the fund raising committee shows that only $210,000 has been raised of the $314,000 needed to complete the Scout ford): The one-time madam program for this year.

Just as a handful of Sunday hikers cannot save Mt. Tamalpais from the subdivider forever, even so, the sporadic use of these acres by weekend Scout campers will not keep this unspoiled wilderness intact unless we citizens contribute the money which will make it more usable.

Rustic shelters against fog and rain, plumbing and running water for secluded troop who is without sin among campsites, a swimming pool, a commissary—will improve the usability of this area while San Rafael.

The Independent - Journal welcomes contributions to "What Our Readers Say." Letters must be signed and must not exceed 300 words in length. The editor reserves the right to delete ma-preserving it as a scenic asset to the county.

Until Sunday I had never followed that miserable, rutted, goat trail, which the Scouts call a road, up to this Camp Tamarancho from the center of Fairfax, and did not suspect of its existence. The vistas at the top were gorgeous, looking across Lagunitas, across San Rafael to the Bay. Sunday hikers who know only Tamalpais trails, should try this one and learn what a heavenly spot it leads to.

This fund raising endeavor should not be left only to the efforts of these fathers of small boys. Let the conservationists gather around; they have a stake in this, too.

Fortunately and much to his credit, U.S. Steel President Leslie B. Worthington included in his announcement an olive branch to the White House. This was his statement that among the factors which brought about the decision to cancel the price rise was "the desire to remove a serious obstacle to the proper relations between government and business."

THERE IS every reason to expect the President will respond in the same spirit.

There should be no minimizing the magnitude of the President's victory. Kennedy put all the power and prestige of his office on the line-and he won and big steel lost. It was a significant economic and political victory for the administration.

The influence and propaganda of the White House, including every action it could generate - Justice Department anti-trust suit, Congressional investigations, massive Defense Department power to direct where steel would be bought - over-weighed all

IN LIGHT of this welcome turn of events there is no reason and no room in the national interest for the administration to allow any pique or hostility to linger in its actions.

I doubt that there was any solid basis for an anti-trust suit against the steel companies. But under the new circumstances such action would, it seems to me, be an unjustified harrassment and, at an early and appropriate moment, should be aban-

Player Might Be Punished For Bid At A High Level

The non-forcing double raise, our subject for the week, is not a bid that you can adopt in a casual game without telling, your partner and the opponents all about it. It's a fine bid to use when you have discussed it carefully.

West dealer North-South vulnerable NORTH Double All Pass Opening lead - V A

East's raise to three hearts is merely invitational, not forcing to game. It shows four or more trumps and about 10 or 11 points (counting distribution as well as high cards).

As we saw in yesterday's hand, this light jump raise may talk the opponents out of a game. But if the opponent refuses to be shut out he may find himself in the soup.

The jump to three hearts does indeed show that East has a limited hand, but it is quite possible for West to have a good hand. If so, South's bid may be quite expensive.

DOUBLE VALUE: In this case, West was ready to bid four hearts. He would win 11 tricks, scoring game and 150 points. The full value would be about 450 points. He gets almost twice as much by doubling South at three spades.

West opens the ace of hearts and continues with a heart, forcing South to ruff. South leads a diamond to force out the ace, and another heart shortens his trumps once more.

Now South cannot afford to draw trumps. West gets two diamond ruffs in addition to the king of spades, and the opponents also get one heart, one diamond and two clubs. South is down three, for a loss of 800 points.

In short, the jump to three hearts presents a serious problem to South. If he passes, he may find out that the hand belongs to his side and has been stolen from him; but if he bids, he may have his head handed

It would be much safer to South to intervene if East made the "normal" response of two clubs. South would double for a takeout, and North would bid two diamonds. This cannot be badly hurt, so South finds out without serious risk whether or not the hand belongs to his
